Footy fans don colours to help kids

FOOTY finals season will have an edge this year with fans urged to wear their favourite team colours on the first Friday in September to support children and young people fighting cancer.

Footy Colours Day, on September 2, aims to raise money for Fight Cancer's Education Support Programs – a service allowing young patients to continue their education while undergoing cancer treatment.

Stars such as Kieren Jack (Sydney Swans), Tim Mannah (Parramatta Eels), Will Skelton (Wallabies) and Shannon Coles (Wanderers) have thrown their support behind the idea.
